Etymology of Arak city (Toponymy of Arak)

After the defeat of the Sassanid rule (Sassanian Empire) in the early Islamic centuries, the city of Ctesiphon (Tisfoun) and other parts of Iran around the capital, the regions between the two rivers of the Tigris and Euphrates were called Iraq. In the 2nd century AH, the area between Hamadan, Ray and Isfahan was called 'Erāq-e 'Ajam. After the foundation era, the name of the city which was initially called the "military fortress", "Sultan Abad" and "Erāq" city, at the same time as the national railroad began to work in 1316 Hijri Shamsi, was changed to Arak. The term Arāk remains from a name given to the region since the medieval period. It derives from Arabic al-Irāq, meaning "edge". The word "Arak" comes from the old persian term meaning "Smooth .Land"

Climate Geography:

Arak, the capital of Markazi Province, is located 288 km from Tehran. It lies at  $49^{\circ} 41'$  east longitude and  $34^{\circ} 5'$  north latitude, 284 km southwest of Tehran. Arak is the capital of the Markazi province. (The word Markazi means central in Persian).

The city is bounded on the north by the city of Saveh, on the northwest by Hamadan, on the west by the cities of Malayer, Khomein and Aligudarz, on the east by Mahallaat and on the northeast by Tafresh and Ashtian. The area of Arak is 7178/98 square kilometers, which approximately included 24.4% of the total area of the Markazi province.

Ghanyarogh Village

The weather in Arak is very changeable; Often times, the winters are very long and last for 4 to 6 months. Spring and autumn are short seasons, summer is coming in July and August. The duration of frosty days varies from 65 to 120 days in different years. The annual rainfall varies between 230_638 mm per year. The annual average rainfall is about 300 mm.

Language:

Before the city of Arak was built, people in the area spoke in various dialects such as Tati in the region of Vafs. After the creation of the city of Arak and the migration of people from different regions to the city, these dialects mixed together and created a special dialect.

Arak Book Garden

However, with the advent of the mass media, the dialect also declined; Arak people currently do not speak with a particular accent, but in the surrounding villages and the city itself, the aged people speak almost with the old accent.

The Arak Historic Bazaar Complex is one of the first monuments of Arak County. Yet, this large complex consists of bathroom, mosque, school, water reservoir, and caravanserais that belong to the reign of Fath-Ali Shah Qajar and was built by Yusef Khan Gorji in the central part of Soltanabad (Arak's old name) in 1813 AD.

Located in the middle of "Chaaarsough", this bazaar has two paths of north-south and east-west which is linked to the old gates of the city through four directions. In fact, it has been the most strategic spot in the city in old times.

Arak Bazaar was registered in the list of Iran's National Heritage on November 1, 1976 under the registration number of 1285. Arak Saraye Mehr complex building is one of the oldest and rare caravanserai which designed in old days, away from machine life with a certain elegance in three floors with a domed roof and beautiful interconnected porch for exchange goods and passengers accommodation.

In the environment of this caravanserai, a beautiful blue pool with 8 sides glaring. Now this pool like a handmade pottery painting by an elderly artist, present their beauty to viewers. The existences of caravanserais in Arak market are loveable part of this collection. Mehr caravanserai is a craft museum and a place for local artist to gather together. This beautiful building has a rare architecture in Arak which attracts any viewer comments.

This old building has created by master artist and architectures with a special delicacy for caravans and passersby in the central plateau of Iran to take a rest. Now this beautiful place to stand firm and remain as a legacy of art and a place for artist and creators crafts that put a new life in to this building. The coppersmith combines with artistic and architectural beauties to be a manifestation of today and yesterday art.

2-Chahar Fasl (Four Seasons) Museum:

Address: Markazi Province, Arak, Shahid Beheshti avenue ( Abbas Abad)

Char Fasl
Museum

Four Seasons Bathroom is one of the ancient relics of Arak city from late Qajar period. The building of the bathroom is one of the most beautiful architectural and tile works in Iran in recent centuries that is considered a unique monument in Iranian architecture for its special decorations. This bathroom is the only bathroom in the country that has a specific section for religious minorities.

This invaluable monument was registered in the list of Iran's national monuments on 1356/8/10 with registration number 1339 and was reopened as the museum of archeologic and anthropology in Arak in 1373 after the repairing and reconstruction operations. It receives many aficionados and tourists at the moment.

This museum displays features on the anthropological effects of the province. The structure of the museum, as a relic of the Qajar era is very interesting. The adornments of the said structure is extremely attractive.

3-Sepahdari Seminary:

Address: Markazi Province, Arak, Bazar, Ansar alley

Sepahdari Seminary is one of the historical buildings remaining from Qajar era that was built simultaneously with the establishment of Arak Bazaar to the order of Yousof Khan Gorji, the great sepahdar and founder of Arak City. Sepahdari Seminary is considered the first school established in Arak (Soltan Abad). Sepahdari Seminary is the first urban building adapted from school styles of Safavid era with delicate and elegant tile works of Qajar period which is one of the current buildings in Arak Bazaar Complex.

This school was converted into the first school of religious sciences in this city. Imam Khomeini and Ayatollah Golpayegani were educated here. It comprises of a mosque, water reservoir and other facilities. It has a comparatively large courtyard with a pool in the center.

Saint Mesrop Church:

Address: Markazi Province, Arak, Shahid Beheshti avenue, Neisanian street.

Saint Mesrop is a Qajar era (1785–1925) church in Arak where the Armenian community of the city worships. Built in 1941, this church has a rectangular plan.

The church has several lightwells and two entrances in the south and west. The bell tower is located across from the western entrance. The complex includes a clergy house, prayer hall and a congregation hall.

Saint Mesrop Church was registered as a National Heritage Site in 2001. The favorable economic conditions in Arak and vicinity of Armenian villages of Lilian (from the Khomein environs), Mohajeran and Shazand in this area were among the factors of building this church. This church belongs to the followers of Jesus Christ (PBUH), the Protestant branch, which embraces Christian on Sundays.

The church plan is a rectangular acolyte shaped in size of 24.6 x 15.6 meters. It is located eastward to the west and consists of three parts: public, altar and two side chambers adjacent to the altar. In the center of the church, four octagonal columns bear part of the weight of the arches of the porch and the dome of the one-piece. The weight of other domes and vaults is transmitted on the graves.

The altar has been created inside a large, spacious vault, which is about 1 meter taller than the church floor. In the sanctuary of this church, all the images of the holy Mary and his son Jesus Christ are beautifully seen, and the symbol of the crucifix is seen above the painting. For the strength of the church building inside the walls and columns, wooden beams are embedded. The church's exterior facade is decorated with brick. The roof of the church relies on four columns connected by arches to each other and to the walls. The church has several skylights in four directions, with two entrances in the southern and western parts. The bell tower of the church is located in front of the western entrance.

In addition, they cherished the memory of Armenian martyrs throughout history as Armenian martyrs in the Iran_Iraq imposed war, with the construction and installation of a large chapel, on the southwest side of the yard. This church was registered on December 25, 2002, number 3533. Arak has another church called Ammanville, which was built in 1942 and belongs to the Protestant Armenians

How to reach the university:

To reach the University, where ever across the you were, you can take a taxi online by snapp application.

You can download it on AppStore (android) or Play store (iOS)

Another way is taking a taxi on phone.

<https://snapp.ir/download/>

If you dial 1828 and give your location to the operator, they will send you a taxi in a few minutes.

If you want to take a bus: You can take one of the buses at Malek bus station and get off at Sardaran bus station, there you get on the AUMS buses.

Or you can get to Mohseni bus station and take one of the buses there , then finally you reach Sardaran bus station and get on the AUMS bus station.

Or directly you can get to Sardaran bus station and get on the AUMS university bus.
